GRANDMA'S BIRTHDAY.

Queer Pleading of Chinese Officials.

THIS IS THEIR YEAR OF GRACE.

There Must Be No Fighting, and They Will Forgive Their Enemies.

NEW YORK, August 4.—A Shanghai dispatch says it is stated in well informed quarters that the strongest reason against China's fighting is that her fleet has no coal beyond what is at present in the ships and which would only give a week's steam at the outside. The Japanese are plentifully supplied, and only a few hours from their extensive coal fields in Kiushu. All the stocks of coal in the neighborhood have been bought up by Japanese, British and Russian fleets, and China's supply is too far off to be of any use in a sudden emergency. The supply of powder and ammunition on board the Chinese fleet is totally inadequate to the occasion, and would not last a week, nor are there any reserves less than four or five days steaming off. It is said that Chinese officials are pleading that this is their year of grace, the empress dowager's sixtieth birthday, there must be no fighting, and they will forgive the Japanese.

BERLIN, August 4.—The Chinese minister here has received an official dispatch stating that the Chinese ironclad Ting Yuen rammed and sunk a Japanese warship off Jerome gulf on July 29th. The Ting Yuen is an armored battleship, and is an exact duplicate of the Chen Yuen, which it was at first reported had been sunk by Japanese, but which it turns out escaped from the naval battle badly damaged.

BUTCHERED BY SLAVS.

Cowardly and Cruel Scene in Pennsylvania.

CONNELLVILLE, Pa., August 4. — A bloody affair occurred at Leisening this evening which shows that the violent spirit of the striking Slavs is not yet subdued. While Samuel Matthews, who recently deserted the strikers, was returning home from work a number of Slavs passing by attacked him. Matthews was soon captured, and then followed one of the most cowardly and cruel scenes that the Slavs have so often enacted in this region. The fugitive, hemmed in by large numbers, struggled desperately to protect himself.

A big Slav struck at his neck with a knife. Matthews threw out his arm, and the blade was buried in his arm above the elbow. Dodging another blow from the knife the weapon penetrated his shoulder. A storm of blows followed, every hand striking them holding a knife. The poor man was bleeding dreadfully, and two cowardly Slavs struck him from behind, stabbing him in the back almost simultaneously. He went down under foot, and was kicked and trampled upon by some, while others stooped to stab him in his helpless condition.

A crowd was drawn by the attack who charged on the Slavs and drove them back and rescued the wounded man, who will die.

AT BLUEFIELDS.

American and British War Ships Land Marines.

NEW ORLEANS, La., August 4.—The Associated Press correspondent at Bluefields writes under date of July 25th that the outlook for amicable settlement is very promising. Both the English and American naval commanders have written to General Cabezas protesting against an attack upon any unfortified town, and announcing their intention to protect foreign interests. The situation is further simplified in Chief Clarence's disavowel of the recent revolution, stating that it was the work of his people, and that he only consented to govern, as no regular government was on hand, and it was absolutely necessary to preserve the peace. While this claim is not borne out, it has had the effect of withdrawing even the moral support of Americans. Clarence also discloses that he is having any arms sent to him from any quarter.

COLON, August 4.—According to advices received affairs at Bluefields have taken a serious turn. A British officer who arrived at Port Limon yesterday cabled to the admiralty in London that the entrance to the port of Bluefields had been seized by 300 troops under command of the President of Nicaragua. Marines from American and British warships have been landed for the purpose of protecting the interests of the United States and Great Britain.

Will Become a Candidate.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—Representative Bryan of Nebraska has accepted the invitation of the executive committee of the Free Coinage Democratic League to become a candidate for United States senator, and concurs in the views of the league that senators should be elected by direct vote of the people. He favors the free and unlimitate coinage of gold and silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

Prohibition Convention.

LOS ANGELES, August 4.—The Prohibition county convention convened here today with about 100 delegates present. The main feature of the work today was the passage of a motion that in making nominations only prohibitionists be nominated for county offices. The convention was unanimous on this proposition.

College of Science.

LOS ANGELES, August 4.—A new institution called the college of science filed articles of incorporation here this afternoon. The purpose of the institution is to found a college in this city for systematic culture and unification of spiritual truth and scientific therapeutics, and to establish a cure of disease.

Subscriptions Void.

LOS ANGELES, August 4.—An important decision was rendered today by Supreme Judge McKinley, which makes void the subscriptions of several of the largest stockholders in the Tenth street hotel project of this city, involving $800,000. The foundation for the hotel has been built several years.

Green Fruit to London.

SACRAMENTO, August 4.—The first European export special, consisting of eleven cars of California green fruit billed direct to London, leaves here at 2.40 Sunday morning.

THE ACCUSED STRIKERS.

Three of the Men Admitted to Bail by Judge Fisher.

WOODLAND, August 4.—Judge Fisher, after listening to the argument of opposing counsel, said he believed the defendants Knox, Compton and Mullen entitled to bail. Accordingly he fixed their bail at $10,000 each. Henry W. Langenour, W. M. Weaver and Chris Sieber qualified as bondsmen for Knox, who left for Sacramento tonight. It is claimed that by Monday bondsmen will be secured for Mullen and Compton.

Murder and Suicide at Salinas.

SALINAS, August 4.—Clara Carroll, a young woman of ill repute, was shot and instantly killed at 11 o'clock last night by Charles Hale, who sent a bullet into his own brain after committing the deed, dying at 11 o'clock this morning. Hale was the former lover of the girl, but had been away for some time, and on his return yesterday found that the girl had taken up with another man. He immediately went to her house and killed her.

Suits Against the S. P. Dismissed.

LOS ANGELES, August 4.—The much-talked-of suit against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of Kentucky filed by United States Attorney Dennis some weeks ago was dismissed by Judge Ross today on motion of Mr. Dennis, who says he is acting under orders from Attorney General Olney direct. Dennis refuses to give Olney's reasons for ordering the dismissal, and also refuses to talk about the matter now.

THE TARIFF BILL.

EQUIVALENT TO AGREEMENT ON SUGAR SCHEDULE.

But Not So Binding as to Cut Off Possibility of Disagreement Monday.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—When the Democratic tariff conferees adjourned to-night after an all-day session it looked as though they were nearer to an agreement than at any time thus far. The day closed much better than it opened. It had brought out the fact that the new sugar schedule submitted as the ultimatum by the conservative senators would be accepted by the house conferees, and that there was little else than the formal and final announcement of correspondence to make the agreement on sugar complete. So fully satisfied were the house conferees that the schedule would prevail that they urged its advantages to their colleagues, and pointed out that in their opinion it would redress the benefits at least by 50 per cent over the original senate schedule.

One of the conferees spoke of the result of the day's work as equivalent to agreement on the sugar schedule, but said it was not such a binding agreement as to cut off the possibility of disagreeing to it on Monday. The new schedule is exactly as heretofore given, namely: On sugars below No. 16 Dutch standard (raw sugars), 40 per cent advalorem. On sugars above No. 16 Dutch standard (refined sugars), 40 per cent advalorem of the amount necessary for the protection of refined sugars at wholesale prices in the country from which it is exported, plus a differential duty of one-fifth of a cent per pound.

GEARY SPEAKS.

Will Refuse to Be a Party to Another Blunder.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—In the house today Geary spoke on the resolution of Hawaiian recognition. He informed his Democratic colleagues frankly that Boutelle had introduced the resolution hoping and expecting that the Democrats would reject it. For one, he did not propose to help fulfill Boutelle's desire to furnish the Republicans with campaign material. "We might as well admit that the Democratic party has blundered in its treatment of the Hawaiian question," said Geary, "and we cannot afford to make another blunder." He declared that the Democratic record upon the question was exceedingly unpopular, that the people were all opposed to the President's course, and that it was a very hard question for Democratic congressmen of California to meet and explain. He would refuse to be a party to another blunder.

Car Off Brooklyn Bridge.

NEW YORK, August 4.—A car on the Brooklyn bridge track jumped the track near the Brooklyn terminus this afternoon, and fell over into the wagon road fifteen feet below. Several persons were injured, none killed. The accident was caused by the breaking of a wheel.

The Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 4.—Wheat—Dull; December, $1.01½; May, $1.07¾.

Barley—Firm; December, 93½c.

Corn—$1.42½.

Bran—$16 per ton.

A Miner Killed.

ANGELS CAMP, August 4.—William Lohr, working in the Stickle mine, fell 150 feet and was instantly killed about noon today.

Why Not Be Fair?

From the Kern County Californian.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries have not yet got out of the stage of backwoods journalism. To them a speech delivered by a political opponent is always "dull as dishwater," made up of "dreary platitudes" or "glittering generalities." While the sayings of orators of their own parties are always "masterly presentations," "brilliant corruscations," etc. Similarly, they cannot report the meetings or conventions of their opponents without a running fire of slur and misrepresentation all through. Such "journalism" is beneath contempt. It has no other effect than to inspire disgust among newspaper readers and to make them mistrust everything they see in print. Why not be fair-minded and give both sides the benefit of at last an impartial report?

Scattering The Forces.

It is said that the Southern Pacific company has hit upon a policy which is calculated to prevent strikes in the future from assuming too great magnitude in certain places, as in Sacramento and Oakland of late, for instance. The plan is to distribute the shops about the country so that only a few hundred men will work in each place. Thus, gatherings of many thousand strikers at one place would not occur.

ALAS POOR JAUSSAUD!

A Marital Failure Ends in a Suicide.

THREE HOMELESS CHILDREN

Sensational Scenes at the Inquest. Mrs. Jaussaud and Kelly Protest Innocence.

For the past week the domestic troubles of Desire Jaussaud, a vineyardist working on the Borello ranch on shares, have been freely ventilated in the newspapers. They had to be so ventilated because of the fact that the matter came out in court in an action for threats against life.

It ended in two fights between Jaussaud and James P. Kelly, whom Jaussaud charged with undue intimacy with his wife. The woman left her home and came to town, as she says, because of her husband's threats. Kelly accompanied her, and the children were sent to Mrs. Dunlevvy's county orphanage.

Poor Jaussaud could bear the strain no longer. Yesterday morning he was found weltering in blood at the door of his own home, just breathing his last, and with a razor buried deep in a gash that severed his throat nearly from ear to ear. The body was taken to the morgue, and at 1:30 p.m. an inquest was held.

It lasted over two hours, and during this time probably over 200 sight-seers passed through the jury chamber to feast their eyes on the horrible spectacle in the rear. Among those who went through with the crowd was James P. Kelly, who occupied such a prominent place in the happenings before the tragedy, and for whom the police had been assiduously searching to secure his attendance as a witness. Coroner Stephens was at once notified that he was in the rear of the building, and ran back for him just as Kelly was passing out at the back door after a glance at the remains of the man whose house had been left desolate. Some irresistible impulse had doubtless drawn Kelly to the death chamber; at all events it secured the attendance of the man who was able, above all others, to throw light on the tragedy.

The jury answered to their names as follows: E. F. Sylvenis, W. L. Hill, J. A. Plyler, E. H. Lloyd, George O. Duncan, Harry Oppenheimer.

Frank Borrello was the first witness called. He said: "Jaussaud lived at my vineyard west of the Barton Ranch; he had it on shares. He had been there since the end of January of the present year, and had a wife and three children. This morning between 4 and 5 o'clock he came to my house, and said a man named Kelly was down to his house. I asked him if there was any row between them, and he said no. I then asked him why he did not bounce Kelly from the ranch. He said Kelly had come down on his bicycle, and he (Jaussaud) had left the children in his care. I told Jaussaud to go home, and I would be over there presently. About 6 o'clock I got up and went to town. I asked Mr. Lamothe to drive me over to Jaussard's place. After having taken breakfast we drove off to the ranch and found nobody there. I went into Jassard's house and found it deserted. As I came out I noticed a woman and a fat boy go in and get a bundle of clothes, which they said was theirs, and they went away. I got into the buggy with Lamothe and followed them.

"When we reached a point in Belmont avenue near the house of a man named Poole I saw the same woman and boy who had come out of Jaussaud's house and then I saw Jaussaud himself came driving down toward his house, about a quarter of a mile away. As he came closer I noticed that his head was kind of hanging over the side and he seemed to be drawing something that looked like a knife across his throat. I thought at first he was vomiting. He turned his head away so that I could hardly see his face, but he looked like a crazy man. I jumped out of the buggy, but just then he made a motion with the lines and the horse started off faster than I could catch him. I said to Lamothe that we had better go to the city and tell the officers. When I got close to Jaussaud I saw the blood pouring out in streams.

"I went to the city and told the officer myself. When I got back to Jassaud's place I saw him lying at his own door dead, and his horse trying to get into the barn. He had a gash in his throat, and there was blood all along the road. Mrs. Jaussaud was not there, neither was Kelly. I don't know Kelly. Jaussaud and his wife did not seem to be living happily together the last week or so. I did not notice any signs of mental trouble in him before this. He was a good, industrious man. The day before he told me he had been sick all night, and his child, too; and he thought some poison had been put in the coffee or something else he had been drinking. I afterward took some of the sugar and provisions to Nick Justy, who gave them to Dr. Rowell for examination. I did not see the razor, but I noticed that he was drawing something across his throat. The blood spurted right out in jets."

Joaquin Lamothe, who drove to the Jaussaud place with Borello, corroborated the latter's testimony.

Charles Rossi, sup rintendent of the Barton vineyard, said that James P. Kelly had been employed there as a stablekeeper. As to Jaussaud, he knew him well. On Friday night of last week Jaussaud came over to him and told him he had seen Kelly in a compromising position with Mrs. Jaussaud, and on this he discharged Kelly next day. Kelly did not make any threats against Jaussaud, and had never been near the Barton vineyard since his discharge.

James P. Kelly was called to the stand. He is below the average hight, with high cheek bones and a thin, angular face, with very little of the appearance of the gay Lothario about him. He spoke clearly but in low tones, but exhibited no emotion. In reply to the usual questions he said that he had had trouble with Jaussaud during the past week, but not before that. Jaussaud accused him of improper intimacy with Mrs. Jaussaud, but he was not guilty. He had not made any threats against Jaussaud, but had had the latter arrested for threats against life.

At this juncture Borello went up to the coroner and told him Mrs. Jaussaud had been seen walking on Mariposa street only a few minutes previously. A deputy sheriff was sent after her, and returned with the statement that Mrs. Jaussaud was in Dr. Deardorff's office, and that the Doctor had said she was not in a condition to attend.

The coroner and jury talked the matter over for a moment and decided to have Mrs. Jaussaud brought in. The deputy sheriff presently returned with her. She suffered a pretty severe ordeal, for the first object on which her eyes rested was her husband's razor on the coroner's table, bearing unmistakable evidences of the work to which it had been put. She rolled her eyes in an alarming way and sobbed convulsively. After a talk with Attorney Hinds she quieted down. She took a seat beside Kelly, who seemed scarcely to notice her.

Kelly continued, and said that Jaussaud had never complained of his paying attentions to Mrs. Jaussaud up to Friday evening of last week. He spent that evening at Jaussaud's house, and left there about 9 o'clock. Nothing happened between him and Mrs. Jaussaud that her husband could have taken exception to. All three were sitting outside of the house under the trees. About fifteen minutes before he left Jaussaud went into the house. He came around at the back door ten minutes afterwards, made a jump at witness and grabbed him by the throat. He threatened witness' life, and told his wife if she did not leave the place he would compel her to leave.

Kelly paused for a moment, as if weighing his words, and then went on: "When I found that Jaussaud wouldn't allow his wife to stay I took her to town in a buggy belonging to the Barton estate. I took Mrs. Jaussaud to the Madary planing mill, and Mr. Kaiser took her to the Home lodging house. I then returned to the Barton place."

Mrs. Jaussaud was called to the stand. She is a plump demi-blonde, apparently about 28 or 30 years of age, and not specially attractive in appearance. The north German and Scandinavian types are strongly suggested in her general appearance, and she would be set down as a Swedish, Danish or German woman at first glance. She says she was born in San Francisco. She bore herself much better under examination than before or after. The first thing she did when seating herself at the coroner's table was to cover the gory razor with her fan.

She said: "I was married to Jaussaud in Los Angeles six years ago. The Borello ranch is just west of the Barton. We had lived there about seven months. I have had trouble with my husband all through our married life. He was good to me for about two years, after which he became crazy jealous. Whenever any one would look at me he would abuse me. I wished for Kelly and he used to come over and spend the evenings at our place. It is a small house with three rooms. Kelly never came when my husband was not there. We were always together. The evening the trouble between my husband and Kelly occurred I was sick, and was resting my head against the sofa, set down ten feet or so from the house. My husband told Kelly to sit down on the bottom of the sofa. When he did so, my husband went into the house and came out the back way. He told Kelly he was coming there too often. Kelly said he would go and never come back any more. My husband then took up a butcher knife, came out to me and told me if I didn't go he would 'make through' with me. If it had not been for Kelly he would have killed me right there. I asked him for my baby, but he wouldn't give it to me. I then asked Kelly as a friend if he would take me to town that evening, which he did."

Mrs. Jaussaud stopped to reflect a moment and then went on: "Last winter when there was a geathaugh working for us my husband made the same threats and also struck me. It was about nine o'clock in the evening when the trouble occurred with Kelly. My husband was always crazy jealous. Lots of times when he was working in the fields he would come in and say he saw a man come out of the house, when there was not a man about the place. If he saw me speak or laugh he would abuse me. I was home on Sunday evening. He drove me out and said if I came there again he would kill me. I went to see my children. I went with two friends, Mr. Pond and Mrs. Grady. He would not allow me to stay. I begged for my baby, but he would not even let me see it. Jaussaud was not a drinking man. I have never seen him materially the worse for liquor. I have never given him any cause for complaint, but have helped him in every way I could."

"My husband was born in Dauphine, France, and was 36 years old. I know nothing about anything being put in his coffee or sugar. I never saw him after Sunday evening. I have heard him say he would kill himself and kill his children. This was four years ago."

The jury, after a brief consultation, returned a verdict that Desire Jaussaud, a native of France, died from wounds inflicted by his own hands while laboring under temporary insanity.

There was a strong disposition on the part of several jurors to lend credence to Mrs. Jaussaud's story, and to incorporate in the verdict that the insanity of Jaussaud was caused by jealousy. One juror desired to go further, and to add a rider that the jury considered Mrs. Jaussaud exonerated from all suspicion. It was decided, however, to return an open verdict, as neither Mrs. Jaussaud nor Kelly are charged with any offense or were on trial before the jury. Outside public sentiment is pretty equally divided, those who discredit the denial of the pair pointing out that a man is hardly likely to take his own life on a mere suspicion of his wife's unfaithfulness.

Jaussaud had two brothers in this county, one in Los Angeles, the other in St. Louis. The brother in Los Angeles replied to a dispatch announcing the tragedy, and telegraphed orders to bury the body, stating that he would be unable to come up here, but would send full instructions by mail.

If Jaussaud was a Catholic, as is understood, he cannot be buried with the rights of his church, which denies the privilege to those who have laid violent hands upon themselves.

Opened With a Roar.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale issued out of the Superior court of the county of Fresno, of State of California, on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1894, in the above entitled action, wherein John Brown, the above-named plaintiff, obtained a judgment and decree of foreclosure and sale against Charles Higgins, The German Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco and Dennis Henley, defendants, on the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1894, for the sum of $2,421.25-100 dollars, in lawful money of the United States, besides interest and accruing costs, which said decree was, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1894, recorded in Decree book volume 5, of said court, at page —, I am commanded to sell all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, situate, lying and being in the county of Fresno, State of California, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: The W½ of the NW¼ and the SE¼ of the SW¼ of section 25, township 15 south of range 21 east of M. D. B. and M., containing one hundred and twenty (120) acres of land, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Public notice is hereby given that on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1894, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, in front of the courthouse door of the county of Fresno, I will, in obedience to said order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale, sell the above-described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment, with interest and costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder, for lawful money of the United States.

Dated, Fresno, Cal., July 20th, 1894.

Order of Adjudication of Insolvency.

In the Superior Court of the County of Fresno, State of California.

In the matter of J. T. Patton and M. E. Patton, insolvent debtors, individually and as partners.

T. PATTON AND M. E. PATTON, DAVing as partners under the firm named J. T. Patton and M. E. Patton, and as individuals, filed in this court their petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that said petitioners are as partners and individually, insolvent, the said J. Patton and M. E. Patton, and each of them, are adjudged insolvents, and are hereby declared to be insolvent, and Jay Scott, Sheriff of the county of Fresno, State of California, is hereby appointed receiver to take charge of and control all and property of said insolvent debtors, or either of them, and control and protect, and if necessary dispose of the same, and hold and perform such other acts as he is directed by the court to be done pending the election of an assignee in said matter, except that said receiver will not take possession of any of the property of said petitioners as may be by law exempt from execution, but will take and receive all their deeds, vouchers, books of account and papers, and keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of their estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent debtors, or to either of them, or to deliver any property belonging to them, or either of them, to any firm, person, or corporation or association, for their use, or the use of either of them; the said debtors are, and each of them is, hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property until the further order of this court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered, that all creditors of said debtors be and appear before the Hon. M. K. Harris, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Fresno, in open court at the court room of said court, in Department One thereof, of the city of Fresno, County of Fresno, State of California, in open court at the courtroom of said court, (forenoon), on Saturday, the 18th day of August, 1894, at 10 o'clock a.m. of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said debtors.

It is further ordered, that this order may be published in THE DAILY MORNING REPUBLICAN, a newspaper printed and published in the city of Fresno, county of Fresno, State of California, as often as said paper is published before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered, that, in the meantime, all proceedings against the said insolvents be stayed.

Dated July 11th, 1894.

The evening journal remarks: "Cleveland's ministers are popular, wherever sent." This, of course, is not intended to apply to the minister who was sent to Hawaii with secret instruction to destroy the government of that country if possible.

In the great gallery of Democratic statuary, Grover Cleveland will loom up with the biggest bust.—San Jose Mercury.

To be appreciated for all there is in him Grover must not be limited to an exhibit of bust.

Punch parties appear to be the latest thing in the way of social amusement in some parts of the country. They will probably be succeeded by fire-escape teas, chimney receptions, and so forth. —Stockton Mail.

The Stockton contemporary fails to mention transom observation parties, which are said to be a source of amusement in that city.

The probabilities are that the modified senate tariff bill will soon be passed and signed, and the tariff smasher will be hauled off for repairs that will never be made. After all the agony is over and the destruction of business has become a thing of the past, protection will still loom up through the ruins of a disastrous campaign, not one-half as badly damaged as the people who attacked it.

You can get forty yards of white dress goods for $1, and under the McKinley tariff too, but owing to the scarcity of money, caused by the paralysis of business under a Democratic administration, the average family is unable to buy as much dress goods as it did under a Republican administration, when prices were higher and money was not hidden away in private vaults and safe deposits.

The Expositor denounces Mr. Estee for saying that the funding bill is a Democratic measure. Possibly it is a little early in the day to denominate the funding bill as a party measure, but should it be adopted by the overwhelming majority of that party in the house it will go into political history as a Democratic bill. By the way, it is rather strange that the Expositor should take any exceptions to party responsibility on that score. If that paper is not in favor of the bill the fact is not generally known.

The Tulare Register makes a very clever illustration of the impossibility of making people virtuous and prosperous —a thing which can only be done by themselves. The idea of a paternalism that will not only bring prosperity to all kinds of people, but which will result in destroying the innate selfishness of human nature and the ambition to excel the achievements of their fellow men, is just now running riot in the public mind, and like any other disease of an epidemic nature will have to run its course until healthy reason again asserts itself. The Register says: "I should like to know, above all things," remarked a fond father the other day, "to make a real man out of my son." How natural, and yet how impossible! It is not possible for a father to make a man of his son. If a man is made of him at all it must be the son and not the father who does the making. The father may indeed put him in the way of manhood, help him to equip himself, try to excite within the lad the lofty ambitions of a man, but there his power ends. The boy must himself grapple with the stern, unyielding forces about him, and lift himself up by them or climb up over them. And so it is with the uplifting of a people. Little can be done for a people. Whatever is accomplished in the way of uplifting must be done by the people themselves, each one striving for himself and those dependent upon him, and sometimes pulling together on the same rope when those take hold who have a common mind to pull. There is no real help but self help for the son of a man or the sons of men.

The Philadelphia Times, a Democratic journal of national reputation, gives the following as an explanation of the conspicuous failure of the Democratic administration: "With the single exception of the four years of Mr. Cleveland's first administration, the Democrats in congress have been a mere opposition. They never had the power to shape the legislation of the country, as either the executive or one or both branches of congress were uniformly against them. They have, therefore, developed no great leaders save as leaders of the opposition, and when charged with the responsibility of legislating for a great nation they have exhibited a most painful want of progressive statesmanship. This is the secret of the failure of the Democratic legislators in the present crisis to meet the great issues which confront them with the enlightened statesmanship that is essential to the successful government of the republic." There is pretty good logic in the Times' analysis of the case. The Democratic party has been doing nothing for so long a time but oppose those who are trying to accomplish something that when they find themselves in power their leaders, from mere force of training and habit, are more inclined to fight among themselves than to enter upon a policy of construction. The only purpose the Democratic party can ever hope to subserve is that of obstruction.

The California superintendent of the Pullman Car company has asked for a reduction of the valuation put upon the company's property in this state to a rate of $4000 per car. The usual valuation of a Pullman sleeper is $13,000, but the claim is made that those in use on this coast are second-hand affairs and much inferior to the best coaches made by the company. The coaches in use here may be inferior to those used on eastern roads, but the charges to those who patronize them are first class, and it is not likely that the coaches could be duplicated for double the amount of $4000 each. The Pullman company is entitled to a fair assessment, but to no favors.

White oak stove wood selling at $5 per cord is one of the results of the present scarcity of money. As the Democratic party is pledged to a policy which demands "cheaper raw materials" the followers of that party who reside in the acorn precincts of this county have no legitimate kick coming. The man who has to buy wood is howling vigorously, however, because of the inconvenience of rustling up even $3. Democrats are certainly satisfied with the situation, though, for there is Grover, a Democratic Senate and a Democratic house, and neither of them have been doing anything calculated to improve matters.

Summons.

In the Superior Court of the County of Fresno, State of California.

Christina Metz, plaintiff, vs. Gottlieb Metz, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court in and for the County of Fresno, State of California and the complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said county.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Gottlieb Metz, defendant.

YOU ARE HEREBY REQUIRED TO APpear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Fresno, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the day of service on you or this summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to secure a decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between you and this plaintiff, and that the care and custody of the minor child, Mary Metz, the issue of the said marriage between you and plaintiff, be awarded to this plaintiff, and for general relief in the premises and for costs of suit.

For further particulars you are hereby referred to the complaint on file herein a copy of which is served herewith.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Fresno, State of California, this 7th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

[Seal of the Superior Court.]

Herndon Bridge Unsafe.

The county bridge spanning the San Joaquin at Herndon, half a mile below the railroad bridge, is closed to heavy traffic, and notices have been posted up at both ends warning teamsters that they cross at their own risk. The condition of the bridge was discovered about a week ago, and was reported to Supervisor Foster. He at once instructed bridge man M. L. Shemerhorn to make an examination, as a result of which it was found that the timbers supporting the vertical iron rods on the Madera county side were worn and rotted away so that the rods had two inches or more of play, and failed to get a solid hold below. The work of repair is being prosecuted with dispatch, and the expense will be charged against Madera county. Quite a number of the timbers will have to be replaced, and the bridge may be closed to heavy teams for a week or more.

HIGH SCHOOL SITE.

What About the White Building?

AN EXPRESSION OF OPINION

A Question on Which all do not Agree—Interviews With Citizens.

Now that a plan has been adopted for the new high school building which is soon to grace our fair city, the important question is asked, "Where will the new building be located?"

The matter has been frequently discussed by the City Board of Education, and at the last meeting of the board they decided to advertise for lots for a building site, the bids to be opened tomorrow evening.

Some of the members of the board advocate locating the high school building on the present site of the Central school, and moving the latter to one corner of the block. This seems to be advocated principally from an economical standpoint, as then no additional lots would have to be purchased. Other members of the board, however, are of the opinion that the new building should be given all the prominence due it, and that the entire block should be devoted to it. They advocate the purchase of additional lots near by upon which to move the Central building. The point that the entire board has agreed upon, however, is that the high school should be placed on the present site of the Central building.

The removal of the central building will be quite a job in itself. If it should not be removed a considerable amount of repairing will have to be done anyway. The roof is in bad order and will probably have to be reshingled, the plastering throughout is falling off in sections and will also have to be replaced. One contractor has offered to move the building for $1,200, which is considered a very reasonable figure.

By the time the contract for the construction of the high school is let, a good part of the $75,000 will already be spoken for. The ward building, together with the heating apparatus and other incidentals, will bring the figure up to about $10,000. It is highly probable that the construction of the high school building will require the full amount of the appropriation of $45,000, while it will take $8,000 to $10,000 to put in a heating apparatus. This will leave from $10,000 to $12,000 for incidentals.

In order to ascertain the sentiment of property owners and business men in the city, a REPUBLICAN reporter interviewed a number of citizens yesterday. They were asked their opinion as to the advisability of locating the high school building on the same block with the Central building, provided the latter was moved to one corner of the block. They were also asked if they thought the school board would be justified, in the minds of the taxpayers, in the expenditure of from $2000 to $3000 to purchase a site for the high school or Central school building. The following opinions on the subject were expressed by those interviewed yesterday:

Captain H. D. Colson: "This is an important question and I have given the matter considerable thought. I think it would be the proper thing to move the white building to the N and Merced corner of the lot and locate the high school on the other side of the block, and facing Fresno street. I see no necessity for buying any more lots. I do not think that if the white building was moved off and the entire block given to the high school building, that it would serve the purpose of education any better, and, furthermore, we cannot afford such a luxury. It would be quite expensive if we could keep up the grounds about the high school building in the way they ought to be kept."

Major C. Chisholm: "I am strictly opposed to having the two buildings on the same block. The idea is just this: This is not a temporary affair, but will be one of the beauties of the city, and it should be given all the prominence we can possibly give it. We should keep up with the times. We should locate the high school building on the present site of the Central school and move the other one away. We would then have something to be proud of. A community is in a measure judged by these things."

J. P. Vincent: "I believe that the two buildings should be kept on the present block unless some special inducement is offered in the way of a lot near by, upon which the white building could be moved. The block is 400 by 329 feet, which I think is plenty of room for both buildings. The alley through the block is closed, whereby about two lots are gained. Fourteen lots on one side could be given to the white school and the other to the high school. Furthermore, if the entire block was given to the high school it would be quite an expense to keep the grounds up in shape; or else it would look like a desert."

Louis Einstein: "If funds are at hand I am in favor of purchasing a new site for the high school, instead of removing the white building. It should be left intact. I think that a lot located centrally could be found. The large children that attend the high school are certainly more able to walk a little further than the little ones that attend the other schools. If the present funds are not sufficient to carry this out, I think the two buildings should be left on the lot. Of course there is a certain symmetry that ought to be observed in such a building, but the immediate conditions should govern this."

Thomas E. Hughes: "I do not think it would be policy to buy another site. The money could be put to the interests of education in better ways. I do not believe it is just to purchase another site. There is plenty of room on the block for both buildings."

George A. Nourse: "If the building should be placed on that lot I think it would be something we would be sorry for ever afterward. It would be deeply regretted by the people of Fresno. The building will be an ornament to the city, and should have the entire block."

Dr. A. J. Pedlar: "I think the two buildings should be kept on the same lot, unless another site could be purchased near it at a low figure; that is, for $3000 or less. There is ample room on that block for both buildings, and leave ample playgrounds, and also grounds in front of each building. I am not in favor of moving the white building if the expenditure is to be over $3000."

A New Lodge Room.

The Hermann Sons have rented the entire second floor of the Braly building on the corner of Tulare and I streets. A force of carpenters will be put to work Monday, and it is the intention of the order to have one of the best-appointed lodge rooms in the city. They will have a main hall forty five feet square and a good sized banquet room, besides the other conveniences. They expect to move into their new quarters on about the 1st of September.

Probably Related.

Madera county has a citizen named Yoe. It is not stated whether or not he is any relation to John Doe, Richard Roe, Margaret Poe and Tally Hoe, so often spoken of, but so seldom seen. It is probable, however, that they all belong to the same family.

A HORSE TO GIVE AWAY.

Judge Webb Traded in Too Much of a Hurry.

A profound knowledge of law and the various departments of legal erudition does not imply that a man can always to an absolute certainty tell the difference between a good horse and one that has the appearance of being good, although really not so. Judge J. M. Webb traded horses a few days ago. He had a fine animal; but not William Fahey, who had a horse which made a splendid appearance, and an offer of trade being made and accepted on both sides, the Judge traded quick for fear Fahey would back out.

The horse which Fahey had, if reports are correct, was one of that peculiar sort which can trot like a gazelle when thoroughly warmed up; but when the excitement is over the trotting qualities also disappear, and the horse seems fifty years old.

After the trade Judge Webb drove his new animal home, and put him in the stable. The next morning he went out for another buggy ride, but was dumfounded to see that his horse had shriveled up during the night, and walked as if he had nails in his feet.

The Judge is looking around for a new horse. He intends to give the one away which he traded for.

FIRE IN HANFORD.

Seven Buildings Quickly Go Up in Smoke.

A telephone message from Hanford to THE REPUBLICAN at 1.30 this morning stated that a fire there had burned seven buildings, including the Pythian house, Rodrigues' livery stables, three dwelling houses, a blacksmith's shop and another building.

The fire was very hot and quick, lasting little more than half an hour. The loss and insurance could not be learned.

Bobs Up Serenely.

The Madera county boy who was blown up by a volcano of his own manufacture, is announced safe and well. Some people think that the big meteor was nothing but that boy returning to earth after being blown into the realms of space. If a boy is not blown so high but that he can get back to earth within ten days from the time he starts, it is not apt to hurt him much, even if he does look like a meteor as he comes down.

Depreciation Helped One Man.

The general depreciation in values has not been a general help to the people at large, but it just now comes in good to Etta Stokes at Hanford. He was held in $10,000 bail to appear in court, but Judge Jacobs of King's county ordered that the bail be reduced to $5,000, on the grounds that the value of property has depreciated since the crime was committed of which Stokes is accused.

It Is "Hot Stuff."

From the Stockton Mail.

Fresno whisky must be strong indeed when it's constant use will cause a policeman's mustache to fall out. The efficiency of Fresno whisky as a depilatory having been established, some enterprising druggist in the raisin center will probably put the stuff on the market and supply a long-felt want.

A BANKRUPT SALE.

One That Will Attract Everybody's Attention.

Brown's Popular Dry Goods House had a state-wide reputation. It was known as a place that carried the finest quality of goods of the choicest and latest styles. A short time since the magnificent stock of this establishment was purchased at creditor's sale and has since been removed to the stores of A. J. Wiener, where a grand consolidation bankrupt sale will begin tomorrow, August 6th. The magnitude of the stock, the extra quality of the goods, the next to nothing prices at which they were purchased—all these facts combine to make this sale the most remarkable that Fresno has ever had. This sale will give you an opportunity to get fine things in the dry goods line at less than half their original cost. Read Wiener's ad.

Talk to San Francisco for 50 Cents.

The Telephone company has reduced its charges on long-distance telephoning. Subscribers may now telephone to San Francisco at the rate of fifty cents for one half minute, one dollar for one minute and five cents for each additional ten seconds. Tariff for non-subscribers: Ten cents in addition to each of the above rates. Seventy per cent of long-distance conversations are closed in one minute or less. Most business orders or transactions can be consummated in the half minute time. This is an expeditious, reliable, satisfactory and cheap method of conferring with people at a distance.

Notice to Odd Fellows.

All Odd Fellows are requested to meet at the hall today at 1.30 p.m. to attend the funeral of the wife of brother John N. Albin.

When Mamma is Gone

To the mountains or the seashore, papa goes for his midday lunch to the New Palm Garden, opposite the Barton opera house, where he finds the finest of everything. Marchand boneless sardines, imported Swiss cheese, Westphalian ham, extra strong limburger, Wienerschnitzel, cold roasts and fine salads are specialties. Wieland's extra pale on draught, straight from the keg through the faucet; no lead coil used.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DECLARED UNSAFE.

A CORRESPONDENT'S ANALYSIS OF POPULISM.

Unpatriotic, Unreasonable, Unjust, Unreliable and Un-American.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—One of the most senseless of the many idiotic vagaries of modern Populism is the booming by certain Populist papers of Governors White, Pennoyer and Lewelling for the United States senate. It is exactly what can be expected from newspapers whose continual cry is: "Down with the United States government and their hirelings." In this case, as those whom they term "hirelings," compose 99 per cent of the people, their tirade of abuse is then directed against the people.

Indeed, this is not an unusual practice now in vogue among that class inherently dissatisfied and distrustful. Their comrades in charge of state affairs are a good type of their class, and are not a whit better than the ordinary ringleaders. The public history of these intriguers while sitting as executives of Colorado, Oregon and Kansas, is so well known that law-abiding citizens have at last awakened to the real character of the leaders of the new political fad now attempting to boost the crazy governors up the political ladder. But they have all gone too far, the Populist politicians by false pretenses, and the governors by their un-American acts and utterances. Pennoyer lacks respect, dignity, principle and sound judgment; Waite is wanting in force, manliness, principle, and Lewelling is admitted the blackest stripe of a Populist demagogue. They are three of a kind, and they bring to mind the remarks of a bye-gone statesman who said: "Better to send a dummy to congress than a man with the brain of a jackass."

It is an encouraging sign to see the rebuke given to these people by the lovers of our American institutions, who are not infected with the spirit of unrest and disorder. In the reports of recent events, the present state of Populism is far from being a happy one. Instead of expected victories and the consequent spoils, they are filled with discouragement, chagrin and bitter reproofs. Lewelling is daily losing ground in his own state, principally because of his recent opposition to the equal suffrage question. Waite, by his imbecility, failing and refusing to uphold law and order, has sunk into a political nonentity. Pennoyer of Oregon, who never had respect for a superior, has not yet recovered from the recent unexpected defeat of his party. In retaliation, Pennoyer and his partners are now, from the stump, charging old and respected citizens with heinous crimes—crimes which consisted only of overthrowing by the ballot a misguided, office seeking element.

It is becoming a matter of speculation among careful voters whether the Populiste would really fulfill their pledges, if by some chance they should be elected. The visionary aims of the Populists are distant and flimsy. In their unattainable utopia all their efforts are concentrated, so much so that modern propositions are given no attention. For instance, the petition now being circulated praying that the government assume control of the railroads, when forfeited, is receiving but scant courtesy from the Populists. A large number of them refuse to sign it. When pressed for a reason they answer: "We won't petition congress whose members are rascals, thieves and traitors."

Of course every man to his own thinking, but inasmuch as the Populists have heretofore preached the doctrine of government ownership, it would naturally follow that they would lend their voice in the attempt to gain that for which they claim to be striving. Even though the petition is destined to be received unfavorably by congress, the Populists could easily have proved their questioned sincerity by recording themselves when the opportunity came. Their failure to do so has set people to thinking. What assurance have the public that Cator, Fork, King and their coterie will not add more numbers to the list of those who have been weighed in the balance and found wanting?

The indiscriminate calumny and slander of our courts, legislatures and public men by the followers of Fork and Cator, without an iota of proof, is testimony sufficiently convincing that they care neither for the correctness or falsity of their speeches or positions. This Populistic habit has now reached such proportions that one cannot remain silent, for now forbearance has ceased to be a virtue.

No attache of the government is now safe from their unjust and uncalled-for attacks and certainly indecent accusations. "A man is judged by his deeds," and as the Populists will now soon be judged by the deeds of their tongues, their candidates will find it as hard to obtain their desires as it is for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle. After November these office-seekers, by existing upon political notoriety, will have passed into "innocuous desuetude." JUSTIN DIRAN.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

No Voter who Votes to Suit Will be Left Unregistered.

The Democratic central county committee met in executive session yesterday afternoon at the headquarters in the Temple Bar building. There was a nearly full attendance. All proceedings were kept quiet, and as for outsiders being admitted; that was simply out of the question.

The session was silent and ominous, and seldom did that wild and vociferous conglomeration of voices rise, which is considered so essential to success by the rank and file of the pure and undefiled Democracy. Only once did the tumult reach the outside. That was when the question of sending Democratic agents throughout the county to see that no Democrat allowed himself to go unregistered, was discussed. Some of the committee wanted the work to be taken up at once and pushed with an unceasing and irresistible energy, while others thought there was no occasion for such a hurry. The conclusion, in which scarcely any two of the committee agreed, if their discordant objections amounted to anything, was that the work of looking after the registration be taken up about the middle of September, and pushed from that day till every Democrat is on the list.

Told the Truth at Last.

From the Evening Expositor.

Should the Southern Pacific Company see it, as was suggested in the Record-Union some days ago, to divide up its railroad shops and arrange to have only about 500 men in one place, Fresno would undoubtedly be one of the points at which a new shop would be established, for nowhere in the state was the property of the company better protected than in Fresno, and nowhere was a better purpose shown to have all the laws enforced during the strike. This town made a reputation for law and order that puts to shame the lying metropolitan press which for years advertised Fresno as the wickedest town in the United States.

Slighted by a Populist.

From the Tulare Register.

The little "cross" around the corner forgot, in his last issue, to call us fool, liar, poltroon, pliant tool, plutocrat or any of the thousand other courtesies usually extended by himself and other polekittens, and we feel slighted.

THOUGHTFUL CONSIDERATION

It Should Be Given to Proposed Constitutional Amendments.

Notice has been given by the governor and secretary of state, by proclamation, that certain proposed amendments to the constitution are to voted on at the next general election. The citizen who wishes to vote intelligently on this most important matter should study the points at issue, and arrive at his best judgment as to whether the constitution with the proposed amendments will be preferable to the constitution as it stands now.

Those proposed amendments will be marked on the ballot by their numbers only, and the voter who does not know them from that designation cannot cast his ballot intelligently. The proclamation will be found in this issue of THE REPUBLICAN, and thoughtful readers should peruse it oftener than once.

There are nine proposed amendments, bearing the titles of senate amendments numbers 7, 14, 16, 17 and 20; and assembly amendments numbers 7, 8, 12 and 31. Of the senate amendments, No. 7 provides for changes in the election of the state board of equalization; No. 14 amends the article of the constitution relating to the formation of new counties; No. 16 relates to revenue and taxation, and specifies what property may be exempt from taxes; No. 17 provides how city and county governments may be consolidated under one municipal government; No. 20 provides that members of the legislature shall receive as full pay for their services the sum of $1,000 and mileage not to exceed 10 cents a mile, and contingent expenses not to exceed $25 for each session.

Of the assembly amendments, No. 7 exempts from taxation fruit and nut trees under the age of four years and vines under the age of three years; No. 8 provides an educational qualification for electors; No. 12 relates to the privilege of property holding by aliens, and No. 31 increases the number of members of the state board of education by adding thereto the president and the professor of pedagogics of the University of California.

Lectured and Released.

Recorder Clark had before him yesterday two Japanese, Jetsuli Sambo and Ryakumatsu Ueki, charged by Street Superintendant Bilby with stealing lumber belonging to the city. It had been left near the corner of C and Inyo streets to fence a lot, and some of it was taken by a Jap, who said he had asked a man, who claimed to be the owner, for a little of the lumber, and the man told him to help himself. Judge Clark gave them a lecture and let them go. They went out bowing, and thanking the court, and promising never to take any more lumber from anybody

Music for Campers.

The Fresno Quinet band will start Monday for Pine Ridge on a camping tour of a week or more. They will take their musical instruments with them and serenade the campers and dispense harmony to the social gatherings among the pines. The band consists of the following persons and instruments: Al Shade, banjo; William Sherwood, banjo; Frank Brewer, guitar; Fred Hayes, guitar; E. M. Packard, piccolo.

Still Another.

The announcement has gone forth that C. S. Payne is a candidate for coroner for Madera county on the Democratic ticket. This is another good man from this side of the river who is willing to hold office on the other. Mr Payne was a school teacher of this county a long time ago, but, like several others, he cast his fortunes with Madera, Fresno county's rebellious child.

A ROSE RHYME TO JULIET.

Heedless how it may fare with Time,
I send you here a rose of rhyme
Its fragrance, love, its color mine
Caught from Hope's ever constant sun.
Upon each leaf a lyric writ—
Your eyes alone may witness it,
And in its heart for you to see
Another heart—the heart of me.

All roses are as fitly worn
By you as by your sister Morn,
Since you, like Morn, fail not to give
New beauty to them while they live.
If this against your bosom rest
One brief, sweet hour, its life were blest.
Then, should you choose to cast it by,
It would not find it hard to die.

So take this bloom of love and song,
And be its life or brief or long
Know that for you the petals part,
Disclosing all its lyric heart.
For you its fragrant breaths are drawn;
For you its color—love's gold dawn.
And for you, too, the heart that goes
Song prisoned in this rhyme of rose!
—Frank Dempster Sherman in Century.

RESTITUTION.

The parliamentary session had adjourned, the Hon. M. Grandcadet, deputy for the Deux-Garonnes, took the express—free, thanks to his annual pass—and hied himself to feel the pulse of public opinion in his native town.

Comfortably installed in a corner of the carriage M. Grandcadet unfolded a voluminous evening newspaper, very ernilite and ministerial, and edited in a prose as heavy and depressing as virtue, the typography of which had a grave and puritanical air about it. The Panama scandal—insignificant, as every one knows, and exaggerated with so much malevolence by the enemies of the republic—was insultingly relegated to the third page and reported and printed in such small type as to be almost illegible. By contrast the columns of this austere organ were filled with foreign politics, articles of palpitating interest, which commenced in the following terms: "Matters are very serious in Venezuela," or else, "Are the days of the Tricompis ministry counted?"

To make a good impression on the white unstarched colonel, who sat opposite to him tranquilly reading La Cocarde, M. Grandcadet did not lift his eyes from the official sheet and appeared to be deeply interested in the Hellenic crisis and in the last dispatches from Canrnecas. But in reality M. Grandcadet was very much upset by the last turn affairs had taken, and a deep feeling of anxiety possessed him.

His name had not been mentioned yet. Good, so far. He had written nothing, signed nothing. Wonderful thoughtfulness on his part. But who could answer for what might happen later? Some of those fine mornings a compromising paper might come to light. For, between ourselves, he had handled his little boodle in an honest, honorable way among comrades, and he had not thought much about the matter. Come, I will allow my readers to pass judgment upon him. He was neutral at the last appeal for funds. A man of consideration, a rich banker, whom he met very often in his political circle, and with whom he was on very good terms—in fact, almost a friend—opened his eyes, gave him to understand how opportune—shall I say patriotic?—it was to vote favorably to the omission. This man, who knew how to live, who was a perfect gentleman, proposed to him—in most delicate terms—to associate himself with the financial operations in perspective—naturally enough, when there was a question of this great scheme—and promised him some recompense in advance—to calm his scruples—a percentage, mon Dieu, not an enormous one, a miserable check for 25,000 francs. Do not gainsay me; you would all have done the same as M. Grandcadet did. And I know what you are going to say to me, "The subscribers, what about them?" Listen to reason. In case of success they would have said nothing, for they would have made a very advantageous investment. They were merely gamblers. Would you know my way of thinking? Well, the subscribers were of no earthly account. Could Grandcadet divine that this famous canal would never be cut through? But several times before he had realized some benefits from affairs of the same kind, which had been more or less successful, and nobody had found fault with him.

Well, frankly, with his hand on his heart, he reproached himself for nothing. And I must confess it he did not believe in this burst of public indignation. That was all humbug. It was easy to recognize back of all this indignation a plot of the old parties; the hands of the Comte de Paris and the Bonapartists. The president de conseil had said as much to them. Happily he had been there—he, Grandcadet—to defend the menaced republic, and at the risk of his life, if you please. To see him you would not have thought him capable of so much determination and character, with his well trimmed whiskers and his air of a country notary. But when he was in danger of being burned that was another thing. Yes, if it was necessary he would allow himself to be killed on a barricade, and like the heroic Baudin he would cry out, "Come and see how one dies for 25,000 francs."

However, in spite of all these fine reasonings the honorable deputy des Deux-Garonnes was not easy in his mind.

"Suppose I try to rest a little," he said to himself.

He drew his traveling cap over his ears, enveloped his limbs in a rug, and stretching himself on the seat was soon sound asleep.

Then he had the nightmare. Was he overtaken by remorse? For myself I think he did wrong to eat that dish of "civet" at the station buffet. He should have been mistrustful of it. Evidently hare did not agree with him.

His dreams were absurd.

At first he thought himself at home opening his safe and finding that he had been robbed; that instead of a flat pocketbook of dark green leather containing all his valuable papers there was nothing in the safe but an empty woolen stocking. Then suddenly he was transported to the chamber of deputies, but he was alone in his seat in the deserted room, which was dimly lighted by a faint twilight. All the desks were locked, all the doors closed. No trace of anything human was to be seen, but an enormous hat very high and shaped like a garden reservoir stood on the president's desk. Grandcadet gazed at it stupidly. All at once the monstrosity became convulsed and commenced to vomit an innumerable quantity of little squares of white paper, on each of which the unfortunate deputy, endowed with supernatural sight, could read the name of his opponent at the last election. But suddenly the hat collapsed like a gibbet, the top lowered, the walls contracted, and Grandcadet, overwhelmed with surprise and horror, found himself before the court of assizes between two gendarmes and recognized under the red sleeved robes and gold braided caps of the president and two assistant judges his porter, his hairdresser and his housekeeper at Paris, all three ruined by the Panama scheme. And the president rose, and in a deep voice read the following extraordinary sentence, which condemned M. Grandcadet, the ex-deputy, to gild the Eiffel tower at his own expense from top to bottom in six months' time and then to be impaled on the lightning rod of the edifice.

This was too frightful! The member of parliament awoke with a start. It was just dawn. M. Grandcadet recognized the hillsides and vines of his electoral county.

"Decidedly, 'civet' is not good for me," he thought. "It gives me very stupid dreams. But I must not give into these bad dreams. I am sure of my constituents. No Socialists among them and the only possible candidate of the Monarchists, the Marquis de la Tour-Prend-Guarde, the partisan of M. Jaime, is not to be feared. Besides no one knows the story of my 25,000 francs. Come, have courage."

A carriage stood waiting for M. le Deputy at the station. The perfect tranquillity of his native city seemed a good omen to him. On his way home the white house painted on the signboard of the hotel, at which the Boulangists met, did not neigh at him and cry out, "Down with robbers!" or the cock on the weather vane of the church steeple sing, "Panama!" under pretense of crowing.

As soon as he reached home his servant Therese, who had been expecting him, served his cafe au lait, and while he was thoroughly enjoying it, "M. Grandcadet," said the young peasant, with a worried air, "I have something very distressing to tell you."

"And what is it, my girl?"

"In the first place, I am about to be married."

"To Pierre, the harness maker across the street? Well, that has been decided upon for two years past. I know all about that. Is it still for next week?"

"Yes. But listen. Before I could be married it was necessary for me to go to confession and tell M. le Cure of a sin I had committed against you."

"A sin! And against me?"

"Yes, monsieur, forgive me," cried Therese, bursting into a flood of tears. "I have stolen from you, yes, for the last two years, and I told M. le Cure, and he has ordered me to return the money which I have taken from you, and here is your money. Oh, to the last penny, I swear!"

And the unhappy girl, putting her hand in her pocket, pulled out a handful of gold and poured it on the table in front of her master.

"What is that you say? You have stolen from me?" cried M. Grandcadet, filled with astonishment and anger.

"Alas, monsieur, do not dismiss me and tell no one, I implore you. You see I was not altogether dishonest, as I have returned every sou to you."

"Well, that is all right, but leave me," replied her master impatiently.

And left alone M. Grandcadet fell into a reverie. Do not for one moment imagine that he for an instant thought of making restitution of his 25,000 francs boodle. Once for all let it be understood he considered it profit acquired and legitimately acquired. No; in face of this poor girl's action, to whom the priest had recalled her forgotten catechism, it was a sociological reflection to the statesman which presented itself to M. Grandcadet's mind. He dreamed for a few moments. Then gathering up the money left by Therese and stuffing it into his pocket—and then, would you believe it?—he, the ardent free thinker who had voted for all the anticlerical bills, murmured softly to himself: "It is a true saying. You must have a religion for the poor."—Francois Coppee.

HARRIGAN COMING.

"Reilly and the 400" Will Be Presented at the Barton August 13th.

Edward Harrigan and his New York company will be at the Barton opera house on Monday evening, August 13th. The theater-goers will then have a dramatic treat in the engagement of Mr. Harrigan as he brings his entire company here, numbering forty people, with scenery, costumes and stage appointments for the play that he will introduce here. Mr. Harrigan's play will be "Reilly and the 400," in which he appears at first as "Reilly, the Pawnbroker" and subsequently as "Sir Edward Reilly, Baronet." Everybody knows the firm grip this really remarkable actor, playwright and manager has on New York. For years past he has held a unique and strong position. Every form and style of play and player has its day, its run, but to disappear after its day is over; but Harrigan's day lingers; his run sees no goal in sight yet; his fall remains through years of changes. He is practically the dramatic sovereign of New York. But he has earned his throne. No picturesque posing raised him to it. Gray matter, talent, perseverance and clean life have made Edward Harrigan one of the successful men of the day.

Sale of seats commences Tuesday morning, August 7th, at the box office.

Tulare County Interested.

The business men of Visalia held a meeting in that town last Thursday evening, to consider whether or not Tulare county should take part in the building of the proposed road from Bakersfield to tidewater. The decision was unanimous that the road would be a good thing, that it ought to be built as soon as possible, and that Tulare county should do all it could to help along. If the road is built on the general route that has been proposed, it will touch a very small corner of Tulare county if at all. It will pass west of the line between Tulare and Kings. But the Visalia people feel that a road of that sort down the valley will be of benefit to them, even if it misses the county altogether

The Sequoia Suicide.

Justice of the Peace Barr of Sanger was deputized by Coroner Stephens last Tuesday to go to Sequoia and hold an inquest on the body of Ruby Ellington, who had committed suicide. The facts developed at the inquest showed that the woman had passed under a false name, Lou Young, and that she had been leading a life of shame. She was 23 years of age and left a husband and two children at Tehachapi. Death was due to poison administered by her own hands, and the coroner's verdict so stated.

PROCLAMATION!

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, AUGUST 4, 1894.

Whereas, The Legislature of the State of California, at its fifteenth session, beginning on the second day of January, A. D. 1893, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE.

ASSEMBLY CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 8

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section seven (7) of article nine (IX) of the Constitution of the State of California, by increasing the number of members constituting the State Board of Education, by adding thereto the President and Professor of Pedagogics of the University of California.

Section 7. The Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the President of the University of California, and a Professor of Pedagogy thereto, and the Principals of the State Normal Schools, shall constitute the State Board of Education, and shall compile, or cause to be compiled, and adopt a uniform series of textbooks for use in the common schools throughout the State. The State Board in making such textbooks, when accepted, to be printed and published by the Superintendent of State Printing, at the State Printing Office, and when so printed and published, to be distributed and sold at the cost price of printing, publishing, and distributing the same. The said books so adopted shall continue in use not less than four years; and said State Board shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall provide for a Board of Education in each county in the State. The County Superintendents and the County Boards of Education shall have control of the examination of teachers and the granting of teachers' certificates within their respective jurisdictions.

AMENDMENT NUMBER NINE.

SENATE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 20.

An Act to submit to the people of the State of California an amendment to section twenty-three of article fourth of the Constitution of the State of California.

Section 23. The members of the Legislature shall receive, in full payment for their services, the sum of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, and mileage not to exceed ten cents per mile, and for contingent expenses not to exceed twenty-five dollars, for each session, to be paid out of the public treasury. No increase in compensation or mileage shall take effect during the term for which the members of either house shall have been elected, and the pay of no attache shall be increased after he is elected or appointed.

HOW THEREFORK. Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an Act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D., 1893, viz:

Section 1. When the Legislature shall propose any amendment or amendments to the Constitution of this state, which amendment or amendments shall have been passed in the manner and form required by section one of article eighteen of the Constitution, and no other mode is provided by law for the submission of such amendment or amendments to the people for their approval, it shall be the duty of the Governor to advertise such proposed amendment or amendments in at least four newspapers of general circulation in this state, for three months next preceding the next general election. One of said newspapers must be published at the city of Sacramento, and two at the city of San Francisco; and in issuing the proclamation for an election at which any amendment or amendments to the Constitution are to be voted upon, he shall include such amendment or amendments therein, and he shall designate them by numbers, in the order in which they have been proposed."

The said amendments are submitted to be separately voted upon by ballot by the qualified electors of the state, on

Tuesday, November 6th, A.D., 1894

Each ballot used at such election must contain, printed thereon, the words:

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. Eight.	Yes. No.
Senate Constitutional Amendment Number Fourteen.	Yes. No.
Assembly Constitutional Amendment Number Seven.	Yes. No.
Assembly Constitutional Amendment Number Twelve.	Yes. No.
Senate Constitutional Amendment Number Seventeen.	Yes. No.
Senate Constitutional Amendment Number Seven.	Yes. No.
Senate Constitutional Amendment Number Sixteen.	Yes. No.
Assembly Constitutional Amendment Number Thirty-one.	Yes. No.
Senate Constitutional Amendment Number Twenty.	Yes. No.

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State, affixed at Sacramento, the day and year first hereto written.

[SEAL] H. H. MARKHAM, Governor.

Attest: E. G. WAITE, Secretary of State.

Young Girl's Tailor-Gown.-608 Northcote Blazer, Sizes for 14 and 16 years.

A pretty and stylish tailor-gown is as necessary to complete a young girl's wardrobe as it is for ladies. This is a useful and becoming style of blazer which when worn with any style of plain skirt completes the popular style of tailor gown. This convenient garment makes it easy to vary the warmth by using shirt-waists, blouses or waistcoats of different weights to suit all temperatures. It is fitted with the usual seams and has sufficient fullness in the back. The fullness of the blouse front is shirred becomingly in the form of a shallow yoke below the stock collar. Cheviot, tweeds and serges are the popular materials for these gowns and for summer, those made of cotton or linen, duck, canvas, or galaten cloth are both stylish and cool.

A special illustration and full directions about the pattern will be found on the envelope in which it is enclosed.

548—Tadleford Skirt. Sizes for 12, 14 and 16 Years.

This is a very popular style of skirt, cut with five gored breadths and a bias seam in the back. Any of the popular cotton or woolen materials can be used for this skirt, and when finished with rows of stitching it can be selected to compl to any of the tailor-made costumes.

A special illustration and full directions about the pattern will be found on the envelope in which it is enclosed.
